

The Ohio State University

School Partnerships

2009
Summary

Dear Friend of Education:

The annual summary of Ohio State's ever-growing number of partnerships with our state's public schools is ongoing testimony to our institution's commitment to preschool through 12th grade education. As you browse the pages of this 2009 edition of the summary, we know you will share our pride in the remarkable range of our joint commitment to school-age children and youth.

As its name suggests, this volume presents only a sampling of the programs in which Ohio State participates with our schools. In its pages you will read about hundreds of longstanding partnerships and dozens of new programs that link the University and those who work with school-age children and youth. These collaborations draw on the expertise, imagination, and good will of faculty, staff, and students on all our campuses and in all 18 colleges. The work of those in our academic units is complemented by that of colleagues at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, OSU Extension, WOSU, the Department of Athletics, the Office of International Affairs, the OSU Medical Center, the Ohio Supercomputer Center, the Office of Continuing Education, the Wexner Center for the Arts, the Alumni Association, and all support units within the Office of Academic Affairs and the President's Office.

The efforts of these colleagues reach across all 88 Ohio counties and represent nearly 400 school districts.

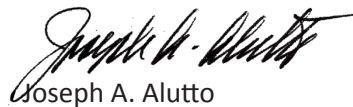

Our communities need us now as never before. This volume attests to the many ways in which we are reaching out to those communities and seeking ways to apply knowledge to real-world problems, conduct research for the public good, and enhance our neighborhoods and schools. We are grateful to the P-12 Project staff, as well as the faculty and staff at our regional campuses, OSU Extension, and the Office of University Outreach and Engagement for making it possible to share this news with you. It is evidence of our land-grant mission at work and our enduring commitment to the communities we serve.

Sincerely,

E. Gordon Gee

President

Joseph A. Alutto

Executive Vice President and Provost
